A Sensible Proposal . . .

A number of proposals for placing ceilings on individual and corporate income tax rates have been made in late years. Some of these are phrased in very general terms and say only that the maximum rate shall be 25 per cent, 50 per cent, or some other percentage. Others are highly detailed, and offer complete plans for the relief of taxpayers.

An unusually interesting example of the latter is found in an actual bill which has been introduced by Representative Antoni Sadlak of Connecticut, a member of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee which writes the tax laws. Mr. Sadlak, to use his own words, is "convinced that achievement of a moderate schedule of income tax rates is necessary to the continued vitality and growth of our nation's economy, and to the maximum advances in the standard of living of all our citizens." His bill would bring about major reform in the income tax structure—and, perhaps, of even greater moment, it would compel the big federal spending programs to compete against regularly scheduled income tax reductions.

The bill would project the reductions for each income tax bracket over a five year period. Provision is made, in the discretion of the President and Congress, for postponements of not more than a year at a time should an unbalanced budget and deficit financing threaten. Thus the rate reductions could be spread over nine years.

Income tax payers at every financial level would be benefited. The bottom rate—which applies to the first $2,000 of net income—would be reduced from 20 per cent to 15 per cent. Then gradual reductions would be made in the progressive rates so that, at the end of the period, the peak rate would be 42 per cent, as against the present 91 per cent.

Here are some specific examples of total reductions: In the $4-6,000 bracket, the tax would drop from 26 to 17 per cent; in the $8-10,000 bracket, from 34 to 19 per cent; in the $20-22,000 bracket, from 56 to 25 per cent. In the case of corporations, the normal tax would be cut from the current 30 to 22 per cent on the first $25,000 of income, and the sur-tax from 22 to 20 per cent. Thus, the combined top rate would drop from the present 52 to 42 per cent.

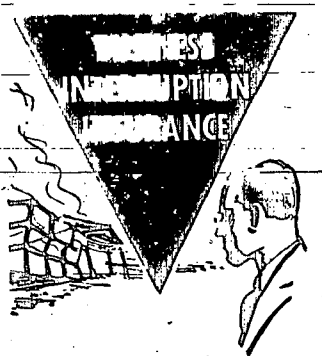

Where, under this proposal, would the government get the money it needs to operate? Mr. Sadlak has the answer to that—and it will come as a surprise to many of us.

He points out that under existing tax rates, the budget revenues of the federal government have shown a net gain of more than $11 billion in only two years—between fiscal 1955 and fiscal 1957. He adds: "Some of this gain reflects the impact of inflation on revenues, but the major part of it has resulted from economic growth itself."

Based on 1956 income levels, he then says, it would take an annual revenue growth of only about $3 billion a year to accomplish the scheduled rate reductions without net revenue loss to the government. That growth is well below what most economists forecast.

Mr. Sadlak makes another interesting point—nearly 60 per cent of the total savings to individual taxpayers under his bill would fall in the taxable income brackets up to $6,000. Only 6.3 per cent of the savings would go to those in the brackets above $50,000. Thus, his proposal would be particularly effective in relieving . . . the tax impact on new and small business, self-employed professional people, and the whole range of middle income families."

Calotte, Michigan, is the leading world port in shipment of limestone; Grand Haven in sand and gravel; and Alpena in cement. Michigan ranks first in the nation in percentage of income derived from manufacturing. Geologist estimate Michigan's supply of iron ore at 71 billion tons.

If disaster should strike your store or plant, Auto-Owners Business Interruption Insurance would pay your taxes, interest, salaries and continuing expenses plus your normal profit to the extent one would have been earned. Get full details today.

The 19th century incubator from the Bettmann Archive shows a 19th century incubator. Heated by warm water, it was used in caring for premature babies. This is a far cry from the scientifically controlled nursery of the modern Blue Cross participating hospital of today!

...thank goodness times have changed!

The 19th century incubator was considered quite remarkable in its time. Even so, early attempts to provide special care for fragile young lives were crude.

Of every 1,000 babies born in those days, more than 150 died . . . infant deaths today have dropped to 25 per 1,000.

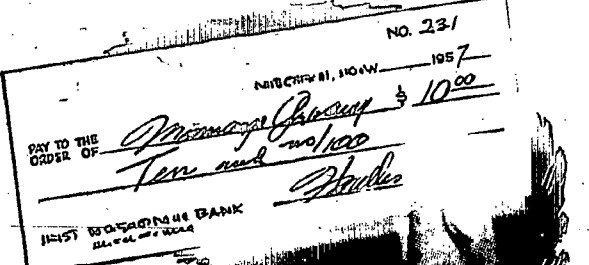

Modern hospitals are equipped with incubators that supply life-saving oxygen as it is needed . . . automatically regulate temperatures to assure proper warmth . . . and even sterilize the air.

Precision equipment . . . skilled hands . . . tested drugs . . . all these are costly and they mean higher hospital bills than ever before.

But isn't the cost of living worth it?

And isn't it comforting to know that as a member of Michigan Blue Cross you and your loved ones will have necessarily higher basic hospital costs like these paid for . . . automatically . . . whenever hospital care is needed? And with the companion plan, Michigan Blue Shield, you have help in paying for the finest doctor care in the world today.

Roscommon Ladies Plan First "Barber Shop" Show

The Roscommon Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc. announced plans this week for staging of their first barber shop show in Roscommon on July 27th. The show will be called "Summer Serenade" and the quartettes will be made up of one of the best displays of talent and fine entertainment ever to originate in this area. Two top men's quartettes have been engaged to sing, the On-chords of Saginaw and the Solitaires of Bay City. Both quartettes are rated very highly in Michigan and both are recent participants in the annual barber shop show in Mio. The Solitaires are past champions of the Bush League Contest in Bay City in 1954 and were also Michigan District Junior Champs in Muskegon the same year.

The Roscommon Sweet Adelines Chorus will also present some fine barber shop harmony as well as a number of quartettes from the Roscommon chapter. Some of these women's quartettes are well known for their many public appearances, the Treble Clefs, Northmaires, the Freshen-Dones and the Sisters. With all the above talent, how could this show be anything but terrific.

Sweet Adelines, Inc. is an international organization comparable with its male counterpart, the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. Inc. It is a non-profit organization dedicated to the promotion of good fellowship through harmony. The motto of the group even better illustrates their goal, "Harmonize the World."

The Roscommon Chapter has readily donated their talent as a group as well as by representative quartettes to various charities, and many organizations in Roscommon, Houghton Lake, Lake City and Mio. They are now staging their own show for the purpose of further financing their own favorite charities, the quartettes and the organization in general. Calvary Baptist Church News
We at the Calvary Baptist Church enjoyed the services of last Lord's Day. Our pastor brought the Father's Day message on the text as recorded by St. John Chapter 8, verse 49, "I honor my Father... These words spoken by our Lord Jesus Christ. The service was well attended. We had a number of visitors with us who enjoyed the morning Sunday School and worship hour. Among our visitors were Rev. and Mrs. Hollie Luter, pastor of the Baptist Church in Free-land, Mich.

The Ambassadors Youth Group met at the 6:15 hour and enjoyed a good service built around the subject, "The Father Who Failed."

In the evening Evangelistic service we were especially favored to have as our special speaker, Rev. Hollie Luter, the former pastor of Calvary Baptist Church. Rev. Luter delivered a very good message upon the verse of scripture found in 2 Cor. 8:9, "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich." Special music for the day was provided by our pastor and his wife, Mr. Floyd Davis and Don Campbell and Miss Carol Mortenson of Flint, Michigan.

We extend to all a very cordial invitation to visit with us next Lord's Day at Calvary Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. George Olney and Mrs. Snook left Sunday night for their home in Detroit after spending a week at their cottage in our "north woods."

We just witnessed a very pathetic sight while on one of our woodland drives today. A mother robin had been run down and killed on the road and her mate was standing by the body apparently trying to revive and encourage the mother bird to fly away. We tenderly removed the little broken body and placed it where the sight would not cause distress and grieve her mate. Our thoughts go to the nest with its eggs or perhaps the baby birds. We hope Papa Robin will take over the household duties and do his best to raise the little flock.

O. F. Melsaac, Former Resident Retires From NYC After 47 Years

When O. F. (Babe) Melsaac, retired as New York Central chief at Bay City last Saturday, he took with him 47 years of railroading experience. He began his railroad occupation in 1910 when he hired out as a freight clerk at Mackinaw City.

During this span the silver-haired chief of the New York Central's Mackinaw Division has seen the transformation of the railroad from the old hand fed locomotives to the modern present day diesels.

Born in West Bay City on July 1, 1892, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Melsaac, he and the family, which included three brothers and two sisters, moved to Mackinaw where he received his grade and high school education.

Since his father worked 48 years for the Michigan Central, railroading came natural for Melsaac. After serving a year as freight office clerk he took a job as road brakeman at Mackinaw and in 1916 transferred to yard brakeman. After only one year he was promoted to yardmaster at Mackinaw and retained those responsibilities until 1926 when his next advancement forced him to leave the tip of Northern Michigan.

He then moved to Saginaw, where he was promoted to yardmaster. On June 1, 1930, he became general yard master at Saginaw. Eleven years later he was moved to Kalamazoo where he was made trainmaster. It was here that Melsaac got his greatest interest out of the railroad.

This period saw the United States in World War II and as trainmaster he supervised the moving of recruits into Custer at Battle Creek.

On January 1, 1945, Melsaac was named assistant superintendent in Bay City and has held the position since. While his official duties end on June 15, all of the orders streaming from his office will carry his signature as his retirement is not official until August 1. Between June 15 and August 1 he will be on vacation.

He recalls that his early railroading saw the Michigan Central in some of its greatest years. In the early 20's for instance, 90 men were employed in the round house at Grayling alone. That is only a few under the complete list of engineers, trainmen, and shopmen, now employed at Wenona yards.

In the "roaring" 20's eight freight trains left and arrived at Mackinaw daily along with three passenger trains in the winter months and five in the summer. Today only one freight and passenger train leaves and arrives at Mackinaw except for the summer months.
